Thank you for doing these good deeds!

We all want to do the right thing. Yet some times it is hard to know what that is? TETRIX made it easier for you. When choosing our products you automatically do good deeds - let us tell you how:

No child labour

We import from companies that constantly visits and monitors the manufacturing facilities. That is very curcial to us. So, good - together you and us are taking a stand against unethical labour.

Offering a hand to help

It happens when good products and a good will meets. TETRIX innovations like the floating Norppa flag, AluLite- and TubeLite displays are produced in sheltered work places for disabled persons and people finding their way back from drug abuse. A good deed because each time you choose us, you provide some one else a chance for a better life.

Keeping an eye on materials

When we traded PVC canvases in our Roll Ups for Polypropylen the material can be recycled. Thousands of square meters of materials got greener. We constantly weigh the options. So when asked how, where and for how long your advertising product will be used for, we automatically gather that info to weigh the best ecological option for you. So good on you for choosing a company that cares.

Always a greener substitut with Pinus

For almost any standard product in our range we also offer a ecological version. The "Pinus" range is a display system line made out of Finnish Pine, and from certified wood. Good, because every time you buy a Pinus display part of the money goes to planting more trees.

Our products tend to work more and travel less

When our competitors choose to shut down their manufacturing and import from low-wage areas, we increase our share of locally made products. Good option for you because TETRIX products uses less fuel on travelling shorter distances to reach you and offers job opportunities to Europeans.

You didn't pick this document from your letterbox.

Good. We offer all of our information electronically. Together we saved us a tree. TETRIX was the first company in our branch in Finland to go flat out with web sales, minimizing the need for unecessary waste.
